

In your own words, why does your nominee deserve recognition as a CNN Hero?

Miss Roggeri is a great person. She is our teacher at Saint Jospheh School, (in Roquebrune Cap Martin, in the South of France). She went to Africa, to Burkina Faso last year to see how people live in a little village. Africans are poor and they live without water. Our nominee really wants to help them but she does not have enough money. Besides, she wants to involve herself for the cause of women .she thinks that in other countries, women are not respected and she wants to help them. And she does not donate money because she does not have any but she donates a lot of her time for other people. So she likes the association “doctors of hope” because there are a lot of doctors or surgeons who go to underdeveloped countries during their holiday to help people and operate on them. This year Miss Roggeri will go and walk with people who are suffering from Alzheimer. In the past, Miss Roggeri sang for a lot of people. She says that she likes singing and she can sing for people who cannot move nor talk or for sick children.

Is there a specific incident or turning point that motivated your nominee to take action?

There is not a specific incident or turning point that motivated our nominee to take action. Miss Roggeri has lived in a generous family. Indeed, her personality derives from the way she was brought up : her parents were generous even if they were not rich. So, Miss Roggeri has gone on living according to the model her parents taught her. Besides, helping people who are in need is very important for her. In fact she wants to help a lot of people.

How have your nominee's efforts made a difference for the better?

Because she is humble, Mrs Roggeri thinks that she does not really change the world. But for the people she helps, she makes a big difference. She makes the disabled people or the handicapped children smile again. Miss Roggeri inspires teenagers of today and especially us, her pupils, to take action too. And that makes a difference for the better because we help them and we ask others to join us.

Is there anything else that makes your nominee exceptional or unique?

There are a lot of things that makes our nominee exceptional. Miss Roggeri devotes a lot of time for charitable organizations. She dedicates her energy to denounce injustices in the world. For her, it's very beautiful to see smiles on sick people's faces. She is exceptional because she isn't selfish and she wants to teach all her knowledge. Through her acts Miss Roggeri is someone exceptional and she deserves to participate in this CNN Hero contest.

How will being recognized as a CNN Hero further your nominee's cause?

Mrs Roggeri needs money to further the different causes she fights for. Nowadays, without money, associations don't have a lot of opportunities to act however exceptional their volunteers are. So being recognized as a CNN Hero and earning some money would allow our nominee to fulfill other people's dreams.
